CARDINALS AND BROWNS MUST TAKE BRACE IN THEIR PLAYING

Neither Team Has Been Showing the Proper Form for the Last Two Weeks—Cardinals' Long Stay at Home in July Should Help Nichols's Men—Browns Lack Spirit in Their Play—Hedges's Youngsters Have Been Performing Well—McAleer's Team Is Battling Below Its True Form—Shay's Absence Felt by Cardinals.

The local baseball situation has developed little to encourage the fans. The Browns and Cardinals have not been playing quite up to the standard the local fans have set for them.

Poor hitting and general indifference accounts for the slump the Browns have taken.

McAleer's men have been hitting at a very poor clip of late. Hemphill and Jones have been doing the major portion of the stick work.

Burkett, Hill and Padden are batting under their true mark. Jesse is nowhere near the .300 class, a place where he has to be to look natural.

At that, Jesse is playing a fair article of ball. In the last two games with Detroit Jesse embossed three bases, played excellently in the field and batted well enough to give the fans courage to think that he will shortly be the Burkett of old with the willow.

Jesse is one ball player on the Browns that deserves special credit. He has given St. Louis good service since coming here from Cleveland, and this town has not had so consistent a player as Burkett in the last ten years.

His team's interest is always his. He has still the fighting spirit that always characterized his play, but Burkett gets little help from his teammates in the line-making line. The rest content themselves with taking their wallpings good naturedly. There is a difference between aggressive ball playing and wallpiking. A little of the former helps any team.

Aggressive playing gives the spectators the idea that the team is trying to win. It is a quality that is a quality that the average American demands in nearly every sport, baseball in particular.

The Browns should have a little more of the fighting spirit. Their pitchers are good enough, their field play is excellent, but, however, their batting and their indifference is too great a load for any team to bear.

Browns Strong in Box.

In the box the Browns are well fortified. Glade is a cracking good man, while Harry Powell has justified Hedges's prediction in the spring that the little fellow would prove himself as good a twirler as Powell.

Powell's work has been all right. The little fellow's loss against Powell was the worst blow he has received this season, and his defeat was in a large measure due to his nervousness and his team's failure to hit behind him.

Polly, another youngster, while not as successful as a twirler as Powell, is a good pitcher. His games against Detroit this season have been his best, and in those contests he showed enough skill to class him as above the average boxman.

Budhoff and Sievers have not pitched up to their standard this year. "Wee Willie" has not been in form since the opening of the campaign. He seems to be in bad shape, and unfit for a grueling contest, but Budhoff is a good pitcher, and will be the Browns' mainstay when he gets going.

Fans who think Budhoff's hard campaign last year has eased him up will regret their mistake when the little demon is going. Budhoff is a great twirler, and his glass will show when old Sol smooths enough. The Californian is a great pitcher, and with the proper amount of work would be a winning twirler. The times he has shown in the box he has displayed plenty of ability, but he is seldom helped out by his comrades when he is in the box. With a little better luck, and better backing Corbett would be way to the good in the winning list. At that, the season is young, and Corbett will prove his worth before the campaign is two-thirds completed.

The playing of McLean regularly appears to be a wise move on Nichols's part. The big fellow is fast on his feet, a good receiver and a good man to have in the same, on account of his popularity. When the pace grows warm and it comes down to the survival of the fittest, McLean and Grady will be doing the burden of the catching for the Cardinals.

SHAY'S ABSENCE.

The Cardinals' infield has been playing unusually well of course. Shay is badly missed. The little fellow is full of snap and ginger and is one of the best men in the league to have on bases. He is a caring, though cool, base runner, and one that is bound to score often if he gets on the bases.

Dan is a sick boy. The little fellow is troubled with malaria, and since the team departed last week he has not been able to be out. With Shay back in the game the Cardinals will be strengthened, although Brain has been playing an excellent game. Davo should be made a Cardinal regular. He is a timely hitter, an excellent fielder, and a fast man on the bases. Some regular position should be found for Davo. He is too good a man to have on the bench.

The rejuvenation of George Barclay is the most pleasing news the Cardinal fans have received this season. George is popular here. The little fellow is a grand player when in condition, but his health is poor and has been an obstacle to his success. George, however, seems to have recovered most of his old-time form, and those who have seen his work in the East have been loud in their praise of "Deerfoot."

With the Cardinals having almost a month before them at home in July, they are bound to make a fair showing. And when they go on the road next trip they will have more confidence. Their defeats in the East were not decisive. Many of them were by a margin of a run. This will not happen often when the Messers, Robisons' team set going at their proper stride. At that, they have been within halting distance of first division since the opening of the season, and will wind up among the first four.

TICKET BROKERS ARE SUED.

Railroad Companies File Eighteen Injunction Cases.

Eighteen suits were filed yesterday in the Circuit Court by railroad companies against ticket brokers to restrain them from dealing in World's Fair special-rate tickets.

Sight of the suits were begun by the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company against William H. Gillentine, Wasserman & Co., Max Schuchat, doing business as Claude & Schuchat; F. J. Hawkins, W. S. Clinton, John S. Cook, George H. Johnson and Benjamin Marks.

The St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern Railway Company sued Charles J. Billings and Charles J. Leonard, doing business as Billings & Leonard; F. J. Hawkins, John S. Cook, W. S. Clinton and Wasserman & Co.

The Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railway Company sued Clifford J. Gillespie, Benjamin D. Marx, John T. Norford and John S. Cook.

Attorney Douglas Robert, representing the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Company, filed a motion yesterday for Judge Kinney's division of the Circuit Court that E. J. Gillespie and Clifford Gillespie be cited for contempt of court for alleged violation of an injunction restraining the buying or selling of World's Fair special-rate tickets.

The Cardinals are never beaten until last man is retired. They have the spirit that wins games, and with their long stay at home in July they are bound to climb upon some of the National League leaders.

Taylor and Nichols have been the local winning pitchers, and have been performing with a remarkable consistency.

Joe Corbett has been in hard luck all season. He has not been worked often

Cincinnati Player Is First Batter in Pulliam's League, With Grady Second.

LOCALS DOING GOOD WORK.

Cardinals Have Four Men in the 300 Class and Leads Them in Team Swatting.

Harry Steinfeldt leads the National League in batting, on the strength of the latest returns, while Mike Grady is three points below.

The real batting star, on the basis of a whole season's work, is Frank Chance of the Chicago club. Only thirteen men are hitting above .300. Of these, Cincinnati has three, St. Louis four, New York two, Pittsburgh, Brooklyn, Boston and Chicago one each. Huggins leads in runs scored, while Wagner and Devlin have each made seventy hits. Shay leads in stolen bases.

St. Louis leads in team batting, Cincinnati second. The Reds lead in extra-base batting, while the great Wagner is the chief individual slugger.

Five pitchers still have undamaged fielding records. O'Neill heads the catchers, Chance the first basemen and Huggins the second sackers. Woodruff excels at third and Dahlen at short, while Carney and Brain have not dropped any outfield flies. New York leads in team fielding, Cincinnati second.
